

Welcome Message from NASFM President

Michael Desrochers

Welcome to the National Association of State Fire Marshals web page. As President of NASFM, I am honored to represent and lead the Association in its mission to promote fire protection programs, develop and sponsor legislation, advise government officials on public safety matters, and most importantly, to support the State Fire Marshals. We believe the nation's fire problem can only be addressed through strong partnerships with other public-safety- focused organizations. I am committed to working to maintain our current partnerships, while continuing to search out new partners to work with us to accomplish our mission. I am also honored to work alongside NASFM's Board of Director's and NASFM's Executive Director Butch Browning and his staff, who are all devoted leaders and experts who work tirelessly to promote fire safety at the state and national level. The Association is proud of its partnerships and we honor all the Nation's emergency services and those who have made the ultimate sacrifice – We Will Never Forget.
